

Connecting people for change

Putting people's stories at the heart of health and social care

The value of stories

Patients want to experience high quality healthcare and staff want to provide it.

By telling stories, patients can help staff provide the best possible care.

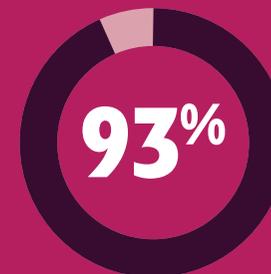

89% of subscribers agree that responding to online feedback can help resolve concerns before they become complaints.

In the words of a recent report from The Kings Fund, quality improvement demands:

“Relentless focus on the needs and experiences of the people served by a system”.

Care Opinion will help you do exactly that.

93% of subscribers agree that online feedback from patients/service users is essential to improving services.

Why Care Opinion?

Care Opinion has national scale and national visibility. It is used by 90% of NHS Trusts in England, all health boards in Scotland, as well as a large number of CCGs, HealthWatches, and over 3,000 professionals in training.

While local feedback systems have limited visibility, stories on Care Opinion have been viewed over 83 million times and 100,000 people visit Care Opinion every week.

“We’ve learnt a lot from the feedback we get on Care Opinion. Our culture is becoming more open. It’s helped us adjust our thinking, and ask whether the way we’ve done things in the past is still the right way for the future.”

Michael Wilson, Chief Executive
Surrey and Sussex Healthcare NHS Trust

"The team are so responsive; they are always there when we need help. From running reports, to using the website, or writing responses, whatever we need the Care Opinion team are there. Their brilliant support has made sure we get full value from engaging online."

Sharon Kidd, Patient Experience Manager
United Lincolnshire Hospitals NHS Trust

Innovation built-in
Care Opinion has an enviable reputation for innovation. For example, our partnership with Talking Mats is helping people with dementia, learning disability and cognitive impairment to share their feedback online too.

The value of subscribing

Access to training in a range of ways to embed responsiveness in your organizational culture. This includes advice around social media, and spreading transparency across your organisation.

Use our reports to identify the areas that need improvement and to see how your staff are engaging with feedback.

Exclusive access to online and offline features. Smart alerts for NHS Choices stories, tag bubbles, and dementia-friendly innovation from our partnership with Talking Mats. There are benefits to suit all needs.

Fulfil the requirement for truly integrated feedback. Our unique system allows stories to span both health and social care. People can give feedback about their whole care pathway. We share it with all relevant health/care providers and commissioners.

“Care Opinion allowed us to have much less guarded conversations with patients, that felt much less adversarial and complaint driven. It felt as if the number of complaints reduced. Care Opinion is excellent value for money and I would recommend it. I think any reduction in complaints reduces administration time and inevitably releases costs.”

Dr Ben Mearns

Consultant Physician & Chief of Medicine

Surrey and Sussex Healthcare NHS Trust

Stories can transform services

Care Opinion focuses on the rich learning from stories. Working with us will give your staff access to continuous improvement through engagement with stories.

"I spent years listening to patients make the same comments, and nothing changed as a result. That has all changed since we started promoting Care Opinion. It has helped us identify what we are doing right, and more importantly where we could improve. Our patients are happier, we have less complaints, and we've found that by listening to our patients, we do have the power to make our service better."

Lisa Metcalf, Specialist Podiatrist
Nottinghamshire County Health Partnerships

Real time alerts save time and help you engage

Care Opinion smart alerts ensure that each story (Care Opinion or NHS Choices) reaches the right people, so they can respond in real time. This increases patient satisfaction, showcases excellent care as it is delivered and drives continuous improvement.

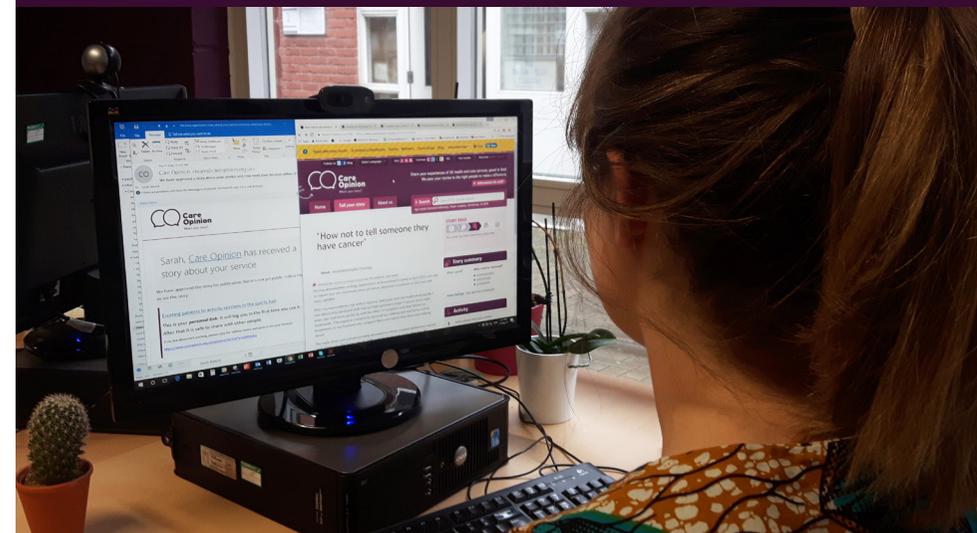

Our Smart alerts include the important feature of including alerts for NHS Choices stories, enabling subscribers to manage online feedback from a single platform. This helps maintain the quality and timeliness of all responses, and also ensures authors feel listened to and engaged.

“One of the great things about Care Opinion is that it provides the necessary route for voicing opinion but without having to make an official complaint. As someone who is proud that we have an NHS and likes to defend it, I am always hesitant to criticise. Care Opinion is done in a way that doesn't feel like making an official complaint but still with an expectation of outcome.”

Keeping you safe through moderation

Our experienced moderators and robust processes protect the anonymity of authors. We also protect healthcare providers against defamation, and staff being identified in critical stories.

We have a commitment to safeguarding vulnerable individuals and facilitating helpful dialogue between patients and health and social care service providers. Our moderation policy and processes reflect this.

100% of the stories and responses submitted to Care Opinion are read and moderated by a member of the Care Opinion team before publication.

“As an independent organisation, moderating stories lets us create a fair and more person-centred approach to patient feedback, providing insight to the relevant staff rather than statistics, and making patients feel listened to.”

Dr James Munro, Chief Executive
Care Opinion

“Moderators ascribe a criticality level to each story, and add positive, negative and emotion tags to stories.”

Subscribers can access these through alerts, reports and visualisations.”
